

What Rush Limbaugh, Glenn Beck, and Sean Hannity haven't figured out about America's Problems

Which culture is best known for their engineering abilities? The Germans are, of course, and not so coincidentally the German language itself is very utilitarian and precise in nature. Which culture is best known for fine cuisine, art, and champagne? Yes, the French although except for the reference to champagne, I might have been referring to the Italians (or others). French and Italian are both examples of "romance languages"; again it is not a coincidence that their very languages seem to mirror the natural inclinations of the people. Even though the French and Italians excel in similar areas, each has their own very distinct style.

This line of reasoning is not to imply that French and Italian people are devoid of any engineering abilities, nor is it to say that Germans can't be creative at all. It is to illustrate how stark the cultural contrasts can be even among cultures of the same race who have been neighbors for thousands of years. There are also racial differences within a given race, and I would even venture to say that the various cultures in Europe are similar/different in as much as they are racially similar/different. No one has ever suggested that all the countries of Europe should be united under one government with one set of rules (I am not referring to instances of forced conquest or the EU which is a financial arrangement). No one ever would suggest such a thing for it would clearly be a disaster; moreover none would wish to discard their culture, or forget their heritage, and none can change the genetic influences on their attitudes, attributes, or inclinations. Nor would they, all things being normal, want to do so.

These differences represent some of the diversities found within one race. It is not now, nor has it ever been an easy task to unite even a homogeneous population under one government and hence under one set of rules. Obviously, cultural differences can be much greater when said cultures come from different races of people altogether. Literally like day and night in many cases. Therefore I submit to you this; IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO FAIRLY, EFFECTIVELY, AND EFFICIENTLY ADMINISTER THE DIVERSE VALUE SYSTEMS, PRIORITIES, AND INTERESTS, PULLING THE ENTIRE SPECTRUM OF HUMANITY UNDER ONE SET OF RULES, ONE GOVERNMENT, AND/OR ONE LEADER. Furthermore, I wouldn't want to live in a world in which you could.

I am about to disclose a "dirty little secret", the context of which even the likes of Rush Limbaugh, Glen Beck and Sean Hannity are altogether unaware. It is one of the fatal flaws in many governmental policies which date back to the Roosevelt Administration (at least). All of the U.S. Government's social and economic policies since then have been built on the principle of racial non-diversity (i.e. cultural/racial differences are merely cosmetic in nature); ironically while claiming to highly value cultural/racial diversity. Do liberals really treasure differences that are supposedly only skin deep that much? Sounds kind of superficial to me? The fact is, the very diversity that liberals claim to value so much is slowly extinguished when multiple races and cultures are forced (by government mandate, and threats of force and/or withholding of federal funds) to integrate with each other in every aspect of their lives.

None have been stifled so much (or at all) as the races and cultures of the European descendants whose ancestors founded The United States of America (8 of the Mayflower passengers were my great-grandparents). All the while being told what “they” need to do so as not to offend other races or cultures, being told; what these other races are entitled to, [which number they must press to speak with someone in the official language of the country (sometimes I can’t repress my sense of humor)]. What “we” need to give to them, and how we must change our way of thinking, what we teach our children in school, our habits, and our lives to accommodate these outsiders whose home countries and cultures are untouched while ours are evaporating. The race that took us to the moon and split the atom (among other things) does not have a country to call their own where they are in charge of their own collective destiny. Indeed, today a country does NOT exist that is “by, of, and for” ANY white culture/race.

It is a sad state of affairs to see such a dramatic “fall from grace”, particularly when it seems to be the only time in history where a great empire (which sustained the world) was toppled due to an overzealous sense of fairness and compassion. The post WWII era should be re-named “the era of white guilt and shame. We went from conquering the world to having a President of another race tour the world to apologize for “us” (being evil).

It has been/is strictly taboo for anyone in the public eye to discuss this subject. The underlying liberal principles and philosophies can’t hold up under scrutiny with regards to their basis in fact. Gradually over the last half century, your freedom to speak freely and truthfully about numerous subjects has been seriously curtailed. It is high time to get the “Titanic turned back around”.
